“There ought to be something very special about the boundary conditions of the universe, and what can be more special than that is there is no boundary...”

*And there should be no boundary to human endeavor.”
-Stephen Hawking (Paralympic ceremony, London, 2012)*

Who plays wheelchair sports? The competitive sports offered through this camp require a permanent lower extremity disability to compete. Campers do not need to use a wheelchair for daily living to participate in wheelchair sports. This includes, but is not limited to: spina bifida, spinal cord injury, amputee and cerebral palsy. We are all about having fun and introducing all kids to sports and recreation activities.
