

An echocardiogram is a record of your heart's activity.
Your doctor can look at this record to see if your heart is working properly.